

JULIE SIEGELE - BOARD MEMBER

Julie Siegele is a strategic thinker with a 30-year track record of results-oriented advocacy in the worlds of health, education, and social justice. A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania with a Master's Degree from Boston University, she conducted and published research for Harvard University, served as a full-time faculty member at Thomas Jefferson University and taught part-time at the University of Maryland's School of Dentistry.

She has designed, implemented, and promoted programs as a Public Health Consultant; served on foundation and other non-profit boards; and consulted and advocated on behalf of internationally adopted, post-institutionalized students, including monitoring special education compliance and designing educational programs for students with learning disabilities.

As a full-time mother of four, she founded and chaired arts-oriented and other programs within her children's school district. Julie has tutored formerly incarcerated individuals preparing for their GED test and provided mock interviews for members of the re-entry population seeking employment. She is passionate about creating opportunities for others, is excited and honored to serve Network as a member of the Board of Directors and looks forward to reducing recidivism rates for all by enhancing and enlarging the effect of the transformative experience that is Network!
